In recent times, the government has a responsibility to provide better facilities to citizens. Some individuals continue to argue that the government should invest in public parks and sports facilities instead of retail malls. I partially disagree with this statement and my preference will be discussed further.

To begin with, technology is always advancing, and as a consequence, there are several online buying platforms accessible. Moreover, when pollution reaches its pinnacle, public parks and sports facilities will assist individuals in maintaining their health. To cite an example, the government of Delhi increased the number of parks and trees; consequently, people are spending their evening over there and live happily. Thus, public parks are more inevitable than shopping malls.

In addition, young people and the elderly always prefer to sit with their friends outdoors, where they may discover tranquillity and beauty. Since competition in sports is intensifying, every young person wants to participate in sports and create history. If they will play outside, then it would be advantageous to their health as well. Thus, in order to stay fit and healthy, people want public parks and sport facilities instead of retail malls.

However, I would not disregard the aspect that not each individual is using technology. Because the old generation are still finding difficulties to do any work online; as a result, shopping malls are required. Moreover, there are lots of varieties available at shops than online. Hence, shopping malls are required in the town as well.

To conclude, although shopping malls have their own benefits, sports and public facilities are more important for citizens.

Nowadays, people want each and every facility from the government for their leisure time. Some individuals argue that when planning new cities, sports facilities and public gardens should be constructed rather than commercial malls. I agree with this statement to a major extent, and my preference will be discussed further.

To embark with, more green spaces and sports facilities would foster a healthy lifestyle among the populace. Moreover, public parks have a variety of useful activities for the public, such as gym use, running, etc. As an example, the Reva park in Vadodara has gym equipment, jogging tracks, and yoga courses; thus, many people spend their mornings and evenings there. Thus, public gardens have lots of benefits to increase immunity.

Furthermore, youth may use sports most effectively to increase immunity and maintain physical fitness. Moreover, since sports facilities offer the greatest workout equipment, they are more advantageous for people's health. For instance, individuals engage in physical activity to maintain their physical fitness, which also improves their mood throughout the day. Therefore, sports facilities are most inevitable.

However, shopping complexes also provide certain advantages. Although online shops are available, people prefer hand to hand shopping as they can touch the material of the product and they can try it before buying. Hence, shopping malls are essential for individuals who are inquisitive about their merchandise.

To conclude, although shopping malls are required to get better material, sports and parks facilities are more important as it helps people to keep fit and socialise.

In recent years, whenever new cities are created, it is always controversial which amenities are most necessary. Some individuals believe that instead of constructing retail malls in new cities, public parks and sports facilities should be constructed first. I partially agree with this statement and my preference will be explained further.

To begin with, fashion is becoming a trend that everyone wants to follow. Moreover, since shopping malls provide a variety of products and the ability to examine them before purchase, it is advantageous for both the mall and its clients. A report illustrated that the Pooja showroom in Vadodara is the most popular among people owing to the client services it offers.

Additionally, shopping malls are good not just for the owner but also for the nation as a whole. Due to the fashion trend, each nation is competing with one another, and as a result, business of malls and the country's economy are growing. For example, Reliance mall has locations all over the globe and offers outfits for the fashion event.

The drawback of this capability is that not everyone can purchase pricey clothing or obtain as much fashion expertise as they would want. The construction of public parks and sports facilities is very important for senior citizens. The majority of votes for park and sport facilities come from both older and younger individuals.

To conclude, people's growing interest in fashion has increased the need for shopping malls rather than public parks or sports facilities. However, older individuals may use their time by visiting a friend, and younger individuals can exercise at home by purchasing equipment.

Nowadays, the government should consider the health of its population and construct new cities accordingly. It has been stated that it is more important to invest in public amenities such as parks and sport equipment upgrades for residents to relax in their free time than in retail malls. I somewhat agree with this remark, and my opinion will be explained in further detail.

To begin with, public gardens are the most stunning setting for family or friend gatherings. Furthermore, it provides fresh air and cleans the surrounding environment due to the abundance of trees and vegetation. For instance, research has shown that the air in the vicinity of the garden is cleaner and fresher than in other regions. Therefore, parks not only provide a place to relax, but they help purify the air.

In addition, public parks and sports facilities contribute to the aesthetic of the city and serve an important environmental function. Since people utilise these amenities, they contribute to the city's vitality. For instance, according to the poll, the majority of people come outdoors in the evening, and the city seems attractive since it is full with people and vegetation. In addition to improving the city's health, these assets contribute to its aesthetic appeal.

I would not disregard the aspect that shopping malls are also a part of the city; however, elders also like to spend their evenings as they provide better construction and shopping options. So, elders also can purchase products, who do not know the use of technology.

To conclude, parks and sports facilities are beneficial compared to shopping malls as it gives a fresh environment, healthy life and beautiful views.
